

Name: _____

Possessive Nouns

A noun that shows ownership is a possessive noun.

To turn a noun into a possessive noun, add an apostrophe (') and an - s to the singular noun.

examples:

The boy's favorite basketball team won last night.

The girl's dress was pink.

The words boy's and girl's are possessive nouns. By adding an apostrophe and an - s to the singular noun we turn it into a possessive.

Read the following sentences. Change the noun in () into a possessive noun. Write the possessive noun in the blank.

1. On Saturday, my family watched my _____ hockey game. (brother)
2. _____ new puppy had black and white spots on his coat. (Emma)
3. About 70% of the _____ surface is covered with water. (Earth)
4. My _____ house is down the road from my house. (uncle)
5. The _____ research helped in finding a cure for the disease. (scientist)

ANSWER KEY

Possessive Nouns

A noun that shows ownership is a possessive noun.

To turn a noun into a possessive noun, add an apostrophe (') and an - s to the singular noun.

examples:

The boy's favorite basketball team won last night.

The girl's dress was pink.

The words boy's and girl's are possessive nouns. By adding an apostrophe and an - s to the singular noun we turn it into a possessive.

Read the following sentences. Change the noun in () into a possessive noun. Write the possessive noun in the blank.

1. On Saturday, my family watched my brother's hockey game. (brother)
2. Emma's new puppy had black and white spots on his coat. (Emma)
3. About 70% of the Earth's surface is covered with water. (Earth)
4. My uncle's house is down the road from my house. (uncle)
5. The scientist's research helped in finding a cure for the disease. (scientist)